

City Sets Priority Board Staff, Promotes Four to Coordinator

Release Date: Monday, February 11, 2008

Contact: Judy Martinson, Manager, Citizen Participation, 333-3670

The City of Dayton's Division of Citizen Participation has assigned key staff members to the seven Priority Boards and promoted four employees to the position of Citizen Participation Coordinator.

The promoted staff members are Verletta Jackson, Kenneth Marcellus, Connie Nisonger and Michelle Zaremba. As Citizen Participation Coordinators, they are the City's lead liaisons to the community in Priority Board areas and are members of the Coordinators Roundtable, which addresses community development opportunities and challenges throughout the city.

Including the four promoted employees, Dayton's Citizen Participation Coordinators are:

Downtown Priority Board: Kathleen Riggs, Principal Planner

FROC Priority Board: Verletta Jackson

Innerwest Priority Board: Barbara Montgomery

Northeast Priority Board: Michelle Zaremba

Northwest Priority Board: Rochelle Fields

Southwest Priority Board: Kenneth Marcellus

Southeast Priority Board: Connie Nisonger

In order to introduce new Citizen Participation Coordinators and other staff to the community, the Division of Citizen Participation is holding a series of "Meet and Greet" events at regularly scheduled Priority Board meetings. For more information or to reach a Citizen Participation Coordinator, call 333-3670.

Dayton's nationally recognized Priority Board system, in place since 1975, is a communication channel between City government and citizens and provides residents with a means of involvement in neighborhood and city-wide affairs.
